

ONE HEALTH CONFERENCE

An update for public health officials, veterinarians, & Extension professionals.

Coordinated by: Drs. Bill Saville & Jeff LeJeune

Veterinary Extension will host a One Health Conference. The purpose is to provide updates on information and exchange ideas about the epidemiology and current research on persistent, emerging, and re-emerging issues of concern to veterinary and public health. Conference speakers will address surveillance, research, and outreach activities related to these public health threats. Through this dialogue between researchers and public health practitioners, the program committee hopes to increase communications and interactions among all individuals involved in protecting the public from infectious diseases shared between humans and animals.

There will be over 20 speakers for this two-day event. The registration fee is $100 ($35 for students). This will include lunches and continental breakfast. Additional information including the detailed schedule is available online at vet.osu.edu/extension/one-health

THURSDAY & FRIDAY
MARCH 17-18, 2016

Begins at 11:00 a.m. on Thursday

Location: Veterinary Medical Center
601 Vernon Tharp Rd, Col OH 43210

Schedule and More Information:
vet.osu.edu/extension/one-health

Cost: $100 (students $35)

Registration Deadline: March 7, 2016

Mail Registration Information and Check to:

Veterinary Extension
A100P Sisson Hall
1920 Coffey Road
Columbus, Ohio 43210

E-mail: workman.45@osu.edu Ph: 614-292-9453

Name: _____

Profession: _____

E-mail: _____

Phone: _____

Practice/Org: _____

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE